2015 Connecticut Legislative Update

---

Robinson+Cole's Health Law Group regularly monitors Connecticut state legislation that affects health care providers doing business in the state. Following the close of the 2015 regular legislative session, a number of new Connecticut laws have been passed that will affect Connecticut health care institutions, service agencies, pharmacies, and individual professionals in the coming months. We have summarized many of these new laws in our annual Connecticut Legislative Update, including some we reported on previously when they were enacted during the session.
