Elizabeth Wright Recognized by Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly as an “Up and Coming Lawyer”

BOSTON, MA (May 17, 2017) – Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly honored Robinson+Cole lawyer Elizabeth K. Wright as an “Up and Coming Lawyer” during the publication’s annual Excellence in the Law event on April 27, 2017 at the Marriott Long Wharf Hotel. Ms. Wright is a member of Robinson+Cole’s Construction Group.

Ms. Wright handles all aspects of construction-related contract issues and litigation. In addition to her practice, she serves on the board of directors and as co-chair of the programs committee for the Connecticut chapter of Professional Women in Construction, as well as on the membership committee of CREW-Boston. Ms. Wright also participates in a pro bono program sponsored by the Massachusetts Middlesex District Attorney’s Office, in which she represents victims of domestic violence seeking restraining orders.

Up and Coming Lawyers are described as the rising stars of the legal community—Massachusetts attorneys who have been members of the bar for ten years or less, but who have already distinguished themselves despite their relatively junior status.
