Robinson+Cole Lawyer to Lead Group within American Bar Association Section of Litigation

Megan Baroni appointed co-chair of Environmental & Energy Litigation Committee

STAMFORD, CT (October 27, 2017) – The American Bar Association (ABA) Section of Litigation appointed Robinson+Cole lawyer Megan E. Baroni as co-chair of its Environmental & Energy Litigation Committee. Ms. Baroni, a member of Robinson+Cole's Environmental, Energy + Telecommunications Group, represents large institutional clients in a variety of litigation matters throughout the United States.

Ms. Baroni has extensive experience in environmental litigation, health and safety disputes, federal and state administrative compliance, and transactional environmental issues. Much of her litigation work has focused on representing clients in disputes under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act; the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act; the Clean Water Act; and other federal and state environmental laws. Her litigation experience involves federal and state environmental enforcement actions and lawsuits between private parties. She frequently works with a variety of scientific experts and has a keen understanding of the technical issues that arise in environmental cases.

With regard to the ABA Section of Litigation, Environmental & Energy Litigation Committee, Ms. Baroni previously served as the co-chair of the Water/Sediment Subcommittee and was recognized by the Section as an “Outstanding Subcommittee Chair” during her term.
