Robinson & Cole Becomes a Business Partner of the New England Air Museum

HARTFORD, CT (December 3, 2009) – Robinson & Cole is pleased to announce that the firm has become a New England Air Museum Business Partner.

“Robinson & Cole is proud to support the museum, which strives to preserve and document Connecticut’s place in aviation history for future generations,” said John B. Lynch, managing partner at Robinson & Cole.

Mr. Lynch and Jeffrey J. White, a lawyer in the firm’s Business Litigation Group and member of the museum’s Development Committee, accepted a plaque bearing a picture of the cockpit of the B-29 Superfortress, a popular exhibit at the museum. The faithfully restored bomber is part of the 58th Bomb Wing Memorial which pays tribute to the first unit to take the B-29 into combat in WWII.

“The Museum is a valuable educational resource that is focused on improving our visitor’s knowledge of aviation history, science, geography, and technology,” said Joseph Fox, the Museum’s development director. “We rely heavily on the generous support of local businesses like Robinson & Cole LLP to provide the needed funds to support our many exhibits and programs.”

More about the New England Air Museum

The New England Air Museum is owned and operated by the Connecticut Aeronautical Historical Association, a private, nonprofit educational institution organized in 1959. Located at Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks, the museum is the largest aviation museum in New England. This educational organization is dedicated to preserving and presenting historically significant aircraft and related artifacts, engaging visitors through high-quality exhibits, helping them to understand aviation technology and history, and inspiring students through innovative and hands-on educational programs. For additional information, call the museum at (860) 623-3305 or visit www.neam.org.
