

Intelligence

Section 1782: Discovery in Support of a Foreign Proceeding

Recent years have seen attacks on the trade secrets and intellectual property of U.S. companies. While foreign governments, corporate espionage, and cybersecurity grab the headlines, U.S. courts have increasingly forced companies to disclose valuable inside information even when no case is pending.

The mechanism behind this is 28 U.S.C. § 1782, a statute that allows an “interested party” to request discovery “for use in” a pending or “contemplated” proceeding before a “foreign tribunal.” Courts interpret the statute broadly, allowing competitors to get discovery in a broad array of situations including challenges to foreign patents. Below is an overview of Section 1782, an analysis of the contexts in which it could apply, and the discovery that could be available under the statute.

What is Section 1782?

Section 1782 allows a petitioner to apply for discovery “for use in” a foreign proceeding. The statute provides: “[t]he district court of the district in which a person resides or is found may order him to give his testimony or statement or to produce a document or other thing for use in a proceeding in a foreign or international tribunal.”

Congress had two goals when it passed the current version of Section 1782: (1) provide “equitable and efficacious” discovery “for the benefit of tribunals and litigants involved in litigation with international aspects;” and (2) “encourage foreign countries by example to provide similar means of assistance to our courts.” Courts believe those aims require the statute to have “increasingly broad applicability.”

Read more

Mailer’s Remorse: Notice Letters and Personal Jurisdiction for Declaratory Judgment Lawsuits

There are many reasons why patent holders might want to put potential infringers on notice of their rights. Such communications can serve the salutary goal of encouraging settlement of disputes without resort to lawsuits. And under some circumstances, notice may be legally necessary under 35 U.S.C. § 287 to enable a patent holder to recover damages for infringement. But a patent holder might be reluctant to do this if providing such notice can subject it to personal jurisdiction for a declaratory judgment suit in a remote and inconvenient forum.

Q2 2022

FEATURED TOPICS

Section 1782: Discovery in Support of a Foreign Proceeding

Mailer’s Remorse: Notice Letters and Personal Jurisdiction for Declaratory Judgment Lawsuits

FEATURED AUTHORS

Trevor L. Bradley
John L. Cordani
Benjamin M. Daniels
Jenna M. Scoville

Over two decades ago, the Federal Circuit provided some comfort to patentees on this issue in Red Wing Shoe Co., Inc. v. Hockerson-Halberstadt, Inc., 148 F.3d 1355, 1360-61 (Fed. Cir. 1998). There, the court explained that “[p]rinciples of fair play and substantial justice afford a patentee sufficient latitude to inform others of its patent rights without subjecting itself to jurisdiction in a foreign forum.” The policy behind Red Wing Shoe is that a patent holder should be permitted to send a notice letter into foreign jurisdictions to try to settle disputes without being hauled into court there.

Read the full article published in IPWatchdog. Read more

Contributors:

Jacqueline Pennino Scheib | John L. Cordani | Nathaniel T. Arden | Trevor L. Bradley

Nicole M. Diodati | William J. Egan | Benjamin C. Jensen

Kayla C. O’Leary | Kathleen M. Porter | Maria A. Scungio

For additional information, please contact one of the lawyers listed above or another member of Robinson+Cole’s Intellectual Property + Technology Group.

About Robinson+Cole

Robinson+Cole is an AmLaw 200 law firm established over 175 years ago, with a deeply-rooted culture of collaboration, civility, and inclusion. The Mansfield Rule Certified-firm has more than 230 lawyers in ten offices throughout the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic, Florida, and California, serving regional, national, and international clients, from start-ups to Fortune 50 companies. For more information, please visit www.rc.com.

Robinson+Cole is a 2021 Top Workplace!

Hartford Courant

ammetr
NEWYORK

Mansfield Rule
Certified 2021
Powered by DIVERSITYLAB

Boston | Hartford | New York | Providence | Miami | Stamford | Los Angeles | Wilmington | Philadelphia | Albany | rc.com

© 2022 Robinson & Cole LLP. All rights reserved. No part of this document may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or otherwise, without prior written permission. This document should not be considered legal advice and does not create an attorney-client relationship between Robinson+Cole and you. Consult your attorney before acting on anything contained herein. The views expressed herein are those of the authors and not necessarily those of Robinson+Cole or any other individual attorney of Robinson+Cole. The contents of this communication may contain attorney advertising under the laws of various states. Prior results do not guarantee a similar outcome.